PEABODY IN REVIEW

To those persons who have had the good fortune to live in the city of Petersburg and its environs, several superior opportunities in culture, employment, and associations are offered. There is, for example, Virginia State College with its well-trained faculty, its large student groups, many from all parts of Virginia and the surrounding states, and its special opportunity for training at low costs to those in the college community. There is Central State Hospital with its numerous job opportunities, and the Colony for Feeble-Minded Persons with employment possibilities. Then there is Fort Lee, which has work offerings both in skilled and semi-skilled occupations. The intermingling and associations of these several groups give a city, the size of Petersburg, some definite superior advantages.

Along with these advantages, there are opportunities for advancement in the more important positions in the school system which came earlier than similar advantages in near-by cities. Petersburg employed Negro high-school teachers as early as 1882; whereas, a near-by city employed its first Negro high-school teachers thirty-two years later, in 1915. In Petersburg, high school principals were given employment along with high school teachers. Some cities in Virginia employed their first Negro high school principals in 1938, more than fifty years after Petersburg.

Petersburg is this year beginning the high school work in its third high school building. This one, modern in every respect, reflects the later trend in construction and appointments. Here the idea of gracious living can be most fully carried out. The building and program, while not de-emphasizing the so-called academic subjects, nevertheless, are arranged and equipped to train students to become trained artisans in such skills as carpentry, bricklaying, radio and electrical repair work, auto mechanics, cabinet making, and beauty culture.

On the whole, the training of worthwhile citizens for Petersburg, the state, and nation, whether such citizens enter higher institutions or enter immediately the fields of labors, is the goal of Peabody High School; it is using its numerous facilities in that certain direction.

CLASS SONG

GOOD-BYE PEABODY HIGH

So long Peabody High
Time has come to say good-bye,
We're leaving you forever.
No matter if we're near or far,
We'll think of you where'er we are,
We're leaving you forever.
We thank our parents and we thank
Our teachers too who have helped
Us in whatever we tried to do.
We'll face the future the best we can,
We'll need you as our helping hand.
We shall be gone forever,
Good-bye dear Peabody, good-bye.

CLASS POEM

HOW DO WE LEAVE THEE?

How do we leave thee? Let us count the ways.
We leave thee with tear-stained eyes
And a thrill of sadness that will not pass away.
We leave thee with cherished memories of the joyous years
We've shared with principals, teachers, and schoolmates dear;
We leave thee with echoes of our voices singing loud and clear.
Farewell Peabody, dear.

We leave thee wishing the same good fortune and accomplishments
That we've received for those coming after us;
And we leave thee with faith, hope, courage, and determination to climb onward
And upward until we've mastered
Thy gift of Knowledge.

- Barbara Malloy

CLASS MOTTO

Not Finished, Just Begun.

REMINISCENCE

The time has come for us to leave our beloved Alma Mater and to venture into a world of opportunity. When we began, in 1948, our four years' sojourn at Peabody, how were we to know the joy and sorrow, happiness and heartbreak that would be our lot for this period?

None of us can forget the sense of loss and great bewilderment which surrounded us as Freshmen. However, with the encouragement of our principal, Mr. A. M. Walker, and our inspiring homeroom teachers we were able to pull through. It is impossible for us to forget the thrill of belonging to our first high school organizations. Manifesting an abundance of ambition, industry and eagerness, we participated in such activities as cheerleading, basketball, the chorus, Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs.

As Sophomores, we had a greater sense of belonging to Peabody. In fact, we considered ourselves "old timers." That year the Dramatic Club received a bid for attention from many Sophomore notables who displayed a desire to exercise their dramatic ability.

Then came our Junior year. It was during this period that we began to realize that our goal, though still a year away, was attainable. In the fall of 1950, George McKinney joined us.

During this school year, Patricia Worthington won the city and state "I Speak for Democracy" Contest. Fellow classmates were on hand to bid Patricia and her sponsor, Mrs. S. B. Gist, a heartwarming "au revoir" when they journeyed to Ohio for Pat's appearance on the Horace Heidt Show.

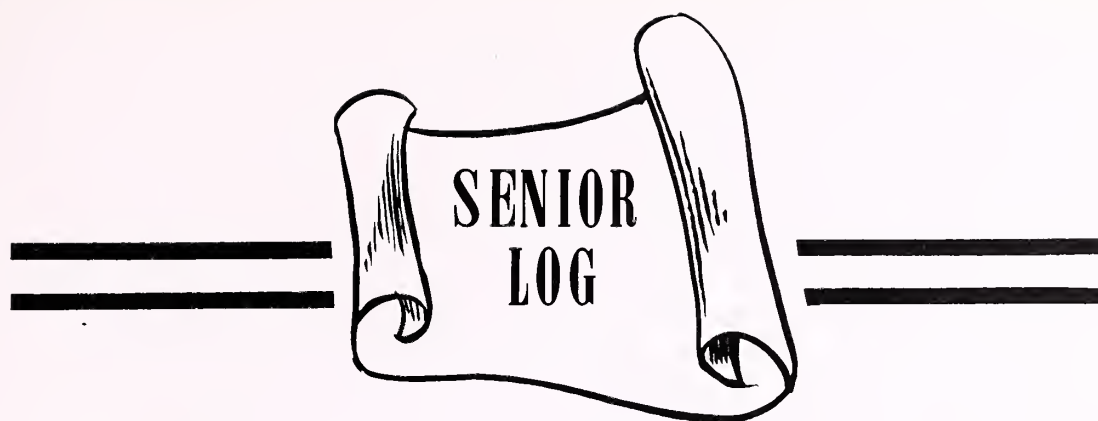

For the first time Peabody's basketball team won the state championship and participated in the national in Tennessee. James B. Thweatt, James L. Threatt and George McKinney made the trip to Tennessee. Ernest Shaw went with the boys to cheer them on to victory.

With the advent of spring, we gave our attention wholeheartedly to planning for the Junior-Senior Prom. The affair which was gay and scintillating was a huge success. In September of our last year, we were proud to enter our shining new building. As Seniors we discarded all childish habits and wrapped ourselves in cloaks of dignity. If we were to name here all Senior participants in the numerous school activities the list would go on and on to include almost everyone in the class. We elected James B. Thweatt as President of the class and he also held the position of football captain. Louise Peterson was an outstanding basketball player. Shirley Taylor and Gwendolyn Davis served as captain and co-captain of the cheering squad. The Student Council carried on its many and varied activities under the able leadership of Patricia Worthington, president. We were also proud to have Germaine Stewart as second place winner in the citywide "I Speak for Democracy" Contest. Shirley Batts was yearbook editor. Ernestine Thomas served as president of the choir. Dramatics, the Safety Patrol, the Junior Athletic Association and other activities were carried on with the help of a large number of Senior Class representatives.

Our school was visited by many former graduates who were attending numerous colleges and others who were succeeding in their chosen occupations, or advancing in various branches of the armed services. Their attainments served as an inspiration to us who were fast becoming aware of the role we were soon to play upon leaving the sheltering arms of our Alma Mater.

We have attempted to sketch for you our brief sojourn at Peabody High School. With a sigh, we bid a last farewell to our principal, Mr. A. M. Walker, assistant principal, Mr. C. S. Scott, teachers and fellow schoolmates. Although we hate to leave, we must move to wider fields and strive to make Peabody proud that she once had us as her cherished sons and daughters.
